

NONPROFIT

New Cope Family Center board members

JULY 15, 2013 8:42 PM • REGISTER STAFF

Cope Family Center welcomed five new members to its board of directors: Suzy Anderson, Lynn Jakubowski, Sharon Krider, Tina Laviolette and Blain Ross.

- Suzy Anderson is a partner with Coldwell Banker Brokers of the Valley and an active community member.
- Lynn Jakubowski, the volunteer coordinator at Visit Napa Valley, joined the board of directors excited to “make a positive difference in people’s lives and to help children in need get off to a better start in life.”
- Sharon Krider is a registered nurse at both Kaiser Permanente and Queen of the Valley Hospital.
- Tina Laviolette grew up in Napa and attended Napa Valley College. She currently serves as the financial services manager at Mechanics Bank’s new Napa office.
- Blain Ross, former entrepreneur and an active community volunteer, works at the helm of The Lux Productions.

“These new board members bring a fresh perspective and a great amount of enthusiasm to our board,” said executive director of Cope Family Center, Joelle Gallagher.

Founded in 1972, Cope Family Center is a nonprofit organization devoted to empowering families to create happy, healthy lives for children through child abuse prevention, parent education and family well-being and support services.
